These days when everyone counts their pennies it is important to stretch our budgets as much as we can. So being able to receive one of these free gift cards will really help us a lot. ait a minute - why on earth someone will be giving away gift cards for free? Where is the catch? What am I expected to buy in order to get that free gift card?

I was asking myself the same question. However, it is possible to get free gift cards and here's why. There are a lot of companies who need the opinion of potential customers before launching their products. Giving away gift cards is their way to bribe you in taking part of their surveys. Participating in surveys is not the only way to get gift cards for free. There are companies who use this method to promote their brands. For instance - the mall where every year around Christmas gives away free gift cards.

One important thing to remember is that not gift cards are created equal. So before you take part in a survey or activity whose outcome is a gift card - ask for the value of it to decide if it is worth it. Another thing to ask is the time you will need to spend on these activities. Sometimes it's not worth it.

Just ask and you would be surprised what you can get. Sometimes it is $25 gift card in exchange for 15 minutes of your time but sometimes companies give away gift cards for as much as $500 so asking pays off. sometimes big time

The good thing about free gift cards is that they are not limited to a particular time of the year but are available year round. All you have to do is go online and do a quick search.
