The fact that Canada and New York are so far apart make the traveling a big issue in terms of time and expense. The company in their wisdom do make alternative arrangements to alleviate this source of frustration.

To highlight this here is what the company will do, normally the visit to the examining doctor and the deposition are 30 or more days apart. This would mean that Canadian based clients would have to travel twice incurring substantial costs. The company however organizes these two visits to run two days consecutively. This is a great time and cost saver. Once the case has been won by you then you will receive traveling costs back. The case could be settled either in court or via an out of court settlement.

Living in New York has added perks in that they can claim what is known as no fault benefits. These benefits are more generous than in any other state. The company advises clients to consult with a doctor in the state in which the injury took place.

In the situation where your injury was caused by another party, or property, or animal belonging to someone else, then a personal injury lawsuit exists. Make sure you have all the relevant then approach an attorney that specializes in the field of personal injury insurance.

The lawyer will fight this case on your behalf. He or she will either fight it in court or try to obtain a settlement out of court for you. Should the case be won out of court then this will save you from appearing in court.

Occasionally consensus cannot be reached via mediation and negotiation. This then results in the case going to court. This is where you will need a good lawyer to make the court see that your injury was due to negligence on the part of the plaintiff. By doing this he ensures that you are compensated for your injury.

The law and regulations concerning personal injury are different in each state so your lawyer needs to know the law as it stands in that particular state.

Each case has three aspects to it, a beginning a middle and an ending. Settlements can be achieved at any of these stages of the case.

Sometimes after a case has been awarded there are still some matters that need attending to, the attorney will see that these are conclude.
